Administrative/Biographical History:

The Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital began in 1923 under the direction of Dr. H. R. Rush and Dr. W. F. Chambers in the Findlater House and included a nursing school. In 1925, the hospital was sold to Concho Valley Missionary Baptist Association and became known as the San Angelo Hospital, moving the hospital to a building on Harris Avenue. In 1931, Margaret A. Shannon, widow of wealthy rancher and philanthropist John Moore Shannon, left over two million dollars to a trust for the creation, maintenance, and support of a non-profit hospital. This trust, led by Dr. J. S. Hixon, purchased the San Angelo Hospital in 1932 and changed the name to Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital.

John Moore Shannon was born in New Orleans, Louisiana with family hailing from Australia. He met his wife in 1879 on a ship from Australia; Margaret Alexandrina Campbell was a young Scottish woman on a tour. The pair married in 1881 and lived in Kansas City, Kansas, Albuquerque, New Mexico, and Colorado City. John worked on the railroad and erected a fence around a three million acre ranch; eventually he turned to sheep rearing and then made his fortune raising cattle. Owning ranch property in Crockett County, he invested in several banks and companies and acted as the director of the San Angelo, the Wool Growers Central Storage Company of San Angelo and the president of the Western Reserve Life Insurance Company. The couple never had children, though they sponsored a couple dozen young men, and lived frugally. 420 cases of poliomyelitis were treated at Shannon in 1949, San Angelo seeing one of the worst outbreaks in the country. The nursing school continued in Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital up until the 1968 when it was transferred to Angelo State University. Shannon was the sight of many West Texas firsts for hospital care, establishing a Cardiac Catherization Laboratory, an X-Ray department, and linear accelerator and magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) facilities. Shannon opened many clinics in San Angelo, including a Regional Cancer Treatment Center, and across West Texas in Shamrock, Brady, and Big Spring among others. In 1981, the hospital was moved to its current location in a new building across Harris Avenue and opened an ER in December of 1988. In 1987, Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital was renamed Shannon Medical Center.
